Public coalition in other countries of the world are usually created during election for formation a desirable government, but in Afghanistan political groups made effort to somehow criticize the government and make use of distance between the government and the people for their own benefits.

Therefore, these coalitions should make effort to initiate good programs for saving the country from current situation and should not let enemies of the people make use of opportunities. Sedra Raisada

It is worth noting that our historical places and historical works and monuments are being damaged as a result of wars. In 2001, an earthquake got the membership of UNESCO considering that the Afghanistan was known as a center that its historical works remained from Angles.
