Doha talks should help fulfill commitments

The country's acting Foreign Minister Amir Khan Muttaqi, leading a high-ranking delegation is now in Qatar for talks with U.S. special representative for Afghanistan as well as the European Union representatives.

The Islamic Emirate delegation is consisted of representatives from the ministries of Education, Health, Finance, Security, as well as Da Afghanistan Bank the country's central bank.

Some key issues including recognition of the legal system of the Islamic Emirate of Afghanistan, unfreezing money and continuation of humanitarian assistance for the people of Afghanistan had been part of the agenda to be discussed between the two sides.

In the past, numerous meetings have been held on Afghanistan, discussing various issues, chiefly peace and security, but nothing tangible has so far been made for the country.

Systems changed, mostly as a result of interferences from some certain malicious circles inside and outside the country, did nothing except creating hard economic and social conditions for the people.

Also, in Afghanistan, foreigners' backed elections failed to elect an honest and a real service-providing leader for the destitute and poverty-battered nation.

This indicates that all what happened wrong in the country were the result of interferences of the aliens.

The Islamic Emirate of Afghanistan, unilaterally, waited long to find a solution to the problems, following Doha peace agreement, but nothing was seen clear from the ex-government to make sure that either it reconciles, resigns or peacefully transfers the power.

The Islamic Emirate has not taken Kabul by force in order the world to avoid recognizing it, rather it filled a power vacuum to prevent more disorder, burglary and looting public property.

Also, the IEA is making every effort for fully ensuring human rights and supporting girls' education.

On the other hand, the people are suffering serious poverty and the flow of the world humanitarian aids to Afghanistan will not do for them more than the money frozen by the west.

So, the world has no excuse to not recognize the Islamic Emirate and the west not to unfreeze the people assets.

The Doha conference to be meaningful and the previous commitments to become practical.

The ongoing meeting should take in mind the problems of the Afghan people and help unfreeze their asset, as the move would prevent the flee of thousands of people from the country and stabilize the country's economy.

This is a very important opportunity and both sides should take advantage of the opportunities to overcome the available crisis.

Time to recognize IEA, unfreeze assets

Negotiation between members of the Islamic Emirate of Afghanistan (IEA) and U.S. special representatives in Afghanistan have started in Doha, the capital of Qatar.

According to the Islamic Emirate of Afghanistan, a special envoy from Afghanistan has arrived in Qatar and it is determined that the delegation meets representatives of the Foreign Office.

Human Rights, U.S. Special Envoy for Afghanistan, and representatives of the Islamic Emirate of Afghanistan on humanitarian assistance and human rights in Afghanistan.

According to the U.S. State Department spokesperson, National Press, the U.S. special representative for Afghanistan will be in Doha for two days of meetings with leaders of the Taliban.

"They'll discuss our vital national interests when it comes to Afghanistan," said Price. "That includes counterterrorism, safe passage for U.S. citizens and for Afghanis to whom we have a special commitment and that includes humanitarian assistance and the economic situation of the country."

Meanwhile, a political official of the IEA, official of Taliban's position has considered the U.S. decision to freeze assets of the Islamic Emirate of Afghanistan as a good step and the Islamic Emirate of Afghanistan is ready to resolve all issues with the US side and start of positive relations with the respective country through negotiations.

According to Mr. Shaboon, the Islamic Emirate of Afghanistan should be addressed in the general public steps towards normalization of relations and solution of all issues.

On the other hand, Pakistan Ministry of Foreign Affairs by praising the recognition of negotiations between Kabul and Washington is stressing that the international community should engage with the Islamic Emirate of Afghanistan, preventing business from being delivered to the population. Dromick Sullivan, the director of operations for the International Committee of the Red Cross, used in a statement Monday that he is "hopeful" after a weekly visit to field hospitals, when he said he witnessed first-hand offering of Afghanis.

"When you're standing in the positions, you're in Karakoram hospitals, looking into the empty eyes of teenage children and the impaled faces of desperate patients, the situation is absolutely infuriating," Sullivan said.

Sullivan said the situation is angrier given that the United States' "more-robust" and the results of the international community's choice to impose sanctions on the Taliban, which assumed power in Afghanistan in August.

In recent weeks, various negotiations have been held between Afghanistan and international organizations including the United Nations (UN) and International Committee of the Red Cross (ICRC) have wanted that continued humanitarian crisis in Afghanistan will plunge the country into a big economic crisis.

A senior Red Cross official has voiced anger at the continuation of sanctions and freezes in international aid to Afghanistan, preventing basic services from being that help understate the current traffic situation.

With the government providing services for its people, it is people who should also cooperate and contribute to solving their own problems. Government can provide you better roads, but it is people who must drive carefully and respect traffic laws, following them without questioning.

Any government on the earth can solve problems for the people, not problems of the people.
