Covid: How Delta exposed Australia's pandemic weaknesses

For the past year, Australia has been coming along almost blissfully oblivious from the global pandemic. It had achieved a "Covid normal" where people could eat restaurants and go to clubs and job events at festivals and fairs. The country's strong Covid defences - border closures and mandatory quarantine - worked 99.9% of the time. When cases did break, officials acted quickly locking down areas and shutting off public transport. Sydney - Australia's biggest and richest city - managed to avoid repeat mass lockdowns helped by a "gold standard" containment system.

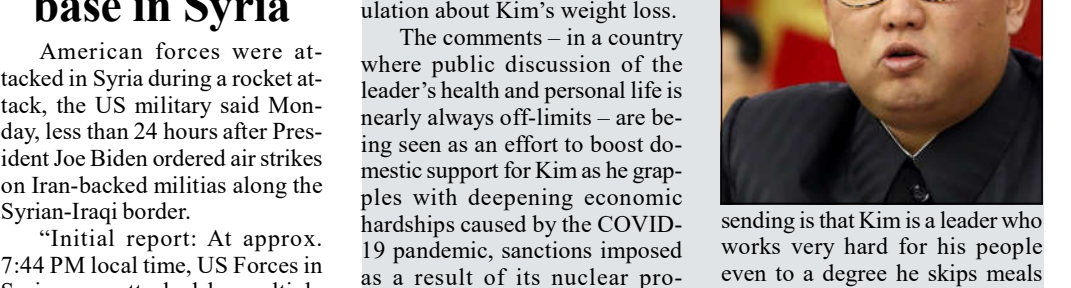

Progress on mutual interests in spotlight as Israel FM visits UAE. In an interview with a senior official, Israel's foreign minister said that the visit is part of a broader strategy to normalize relations with the UAE. The two nations have reached a preliminary agreement on mutual interests and cooperation in various sectors. The visit is seen as a significant step towards establishing a permanent diplomatic relationship between the two countries.

Hong Kong bans all incoming flights from UK over Covid concerns

British air travel from Hong Kong to the UK is set for the period of the Delta variant of Covid. The UK is set to be classified as an "extremely high-risk" country, the highest rating Hong Kong has for pandemic travel. The ban will come into effect on July and affect all incoming passenger flights from the UK. It also comes amid political tensions between China and the west over a crackdown on dissent in Hong Kong.

US hits rocket launches after Iran-backed militia attack base in Syria

American forces were attacked in Syria during a rocket attack, the US military and Pentagon said on Friday. The US said it struck Iran-backed militia bases in Syria during the attack. The US military said that the rocket attack targeted a US military base in Syria. The Pentagon said that the US launched a precision strike on the base. The US said that the strike was successful and that the base has been destroyed.

Slimmer Kim prompts 'heartbreak' in North Korea

North Koreans have been worshipping leader Kim Jong-un's "trimmer" physique, state media spent a local holiday on Friday, in a slightly unusual broadcast that promised one-sided admiration of foreign press images about Kim's weight loss. The broadcast was seen as a sign of Kim's growing popularity and his efforts to improve his public image. State media reported that Kim had lost a significant amount of weight, which was seen as a positive sign of his health and vitality.
